

A Long Weekend at Aphrodite Hills

Three resort days between Paphos and Limassol, built around the golf, the spa and an easy family rhythm, with the coast a few minutes downhill.

BASE

Aphrodite Hills resort

PACE

Easy; everything is on the resort

BEST MONTHS

March to November

GOOD FOR

Families, golfers, groups

Aphrodite Hills is its own small world on the hills above the south coast, halfway between Paphos and Limassol. The championship golf course, the spa, the village square and the pools mean you can park the car on arrival and barely touch it again.

Three days is enough to settle in: a round of golf, a spa morning, time by the pool for the children, and one or two easy trips down to the sea and the nearby ruins when you feel like a change.

DAY 1

Settle in

MORNING

Arrive, unpack and let the resort do the work. The village square has everything you need for a first easy afternoon.

AFTERNOON

Pool time, or a first look at the practice range if golf is on the agenda.

EVENING

Dinner in the village square, with the children safe to roam.

DAY 2

Golf and the spa

MORNING

An early tee time on the championship course, with its famous ravine carry and long sea views, before the day warms up.

AFTERNOON

The other half of the party takes the spa, then everyone meets back at the pool.

EVENING

A relaxed family dinner; nobody has to drive.

DAY 3

Down to the sea

MORNING

Drop down to the coast for a morning swim, with Petra tou Romiou, Aphrodite's mythical birthplace, just along the road.

AFTERNOON

Either the ancient theatre at Kourion toward Limassol, or the harbour and mosaics at Paphos, both within easy reach.

EVENING

Back up the hill for a final evening on the resort.
